PANIC SPREADS TO NAPLES WHERE

the End of the World Was at Hand.

Rome April 9.—The latest news received regarding the eruption of Mount Vesuvius is that the volcano has suddenly moderated. The showers of ashes falling for several days, have ceased.

Advices from Naples say there are 150,000 refugees there.

Naples, April 9.—From stories told by refugees reaching here of persons who have lost their lives during the eruption it is evident that at least 50 deaths have occurred. In many cases the unfortunates became victims of darkness, smoke and ashes, and were driven from their homes by the earthquake accompanying the eruption. They lost their way in the mountains and perished. A story is brought from Ottavio that a number of school children were driven from a school house near that town and lost their way. Three were picked up but no others were heard from. In another town a church, in which a crowd had collected to pray, collapsed. Thirty bodies were recovered.

Naples, April 9.—Several houses and the church at San Giuseppe Vesuviano have collapsed and 30 dead bodies have been taken from the ruins. At Borotrecase seven have been killed and six dead bodies have been found at Torre Annunziata, while the injured can be counted by thousands. The king and queen have left Rome and are coming here in strict privacy.

Naples, April 9.—The eruption of Vesuvius has caused the inhabitants of Naples to flee in large numbers towards Rome. Cinders have fallen in some places to a depth of three feet, stopping all street traffic and paralyzing business. The sufferings of the poor are appalling. Villages of Ottavio and Poggioreale, at the foot of Vesuvius, near Naples, are absolutely destroyed. Many inhabitants have perished and none escaped without injuries more or less serious. It is estimated that 50,000 are rendered homeless. A dozen villages have been wiped out and 2,000 acres of vineyards, olive groves and farm lands destroyed. Earthquakes are adding to the horrors of the situation and the eruption is growing worse every hour. A state of panic prevails throughout the surrounding country.

Naples, April 9.—Mount Vesuvius is more active than ever, and inhabitants of the country are fleeing in terror. No trace remains of Boscorease, a commune on the southern declivity of the mountain, and Torre Annunziata, on the shore of the Gulf of Naples, one mile to the southward, is almost surrounded by the invading lava and has been evacuated by its 30,000 inhabitants. The people were brought to Naples by trains, streetcars, military cars and steamships. Similar means of transportation are being employed to bring away the people from Torre del Greco. The police and carabinieri are guarding the abandoned houses and several members of the government also are there.

The observatory has been destroyed, and Signor Matteucci, the director, and the employees had narrow escapes. They passed the night in the darkness save for the frequent flashes of lightning, as the gas works and electric lighting plant were totally destroyed. Prisoners in jails on the mountain-side went mad with terror and mutilated, and were only partially quieted by being brought here. But their

PRESIDENT'S APPOINTEE IS OPPOSED

D. F. Barnes

Washington, April 9.—Opposition to the appointment of D. F. Barnes, assistant secretary to President Roosevelt, to be postmaster at Washington continues, and the Senate committee on postoffices and post roads may not act with promptness in reporting in favor of confirmation.

The former organ of the administration, the Star, continues to fire hot shot into the President and Mr. Barnes. That newspaper printed this week a series of comic pictures of Mr. Barnes, with this legend printed beneath:

"If you were born in Nova Scotia and you had clerked in the District of Columbia, and you threw a woman out of your office, and instead of getting kicked out yourself you got appointed postmaster—wouldn't it jar you?"

The same paper prints an editorial in which it says that the objections to Mr. Barnes are the facts that he is a non-resident, and that his past performances in public office are not reassuring. It criticizes the President very severely for not living up to his pretensions in favor of home rule, or to the equities of the situation.

In view of the throwing out of Mrs. Morris on the occasion of her last visit to the White House, the suggestion is made that the next assistant secretary ought to be either James J. Corbett or Robert Fitzsimmons for what it styles obvious reasons. It is the duty of the President, this article says, to name some one who shall possess the superior mental qualifications of Mr. Barnes, but who shall, so far as physical characteristics are concerned, be competent in every way to meet the demands of the day and the emergency of the hour.

It reports a rumor that President-elect is more inclined toward Fitzsimmons than Corbett, because the gentleman was not only born beneath the English flag, but is also a more speedy worker than the other.

PREACHER ACQUITTED OF WIFE MURDER

New Albany, Ind., April 9.—Rev. Elmer G. Sutherland, charged with wife murder, was acquitted today after 16 hours deliberation by the jury. Mr. Sutherland was found hanging in a doorway of her home a year ago. It was thought she had committed suicide but later her husband was arrested charged with the crime.

not "mob" the local "Duke of Lancaster," the title under which the king is registered at the Palace hotel. His majesty walks about town with his friends without fear of "mobbing" and even the shoo-shooters leave him alone. The king spends several hours daily in his automobile, exploring the surrounding country. He doesn't walk much, because he is still very lame, and leans heavily on his stick. There is no disguising the fact that he has become very fat and looks much older than his years. He is white and haggard.

The king reads little but the newspapers, which he devours omnivorously, but if he cares to read a book he finds several on his table, among them Winston Churchill's biography of his father, Lord Randolph Churchill, Thackeray's "Wives of Henry VIII," Whipple's "Pitt" and many French and English novels.

a Cave-In.

Irwin, Pa., April 9.—While drawing stumps in the Larimer mine Saturday evening several men were caught in a cave-in. One was killed and one seriously injured.

The dead: Prince Hardy, buried under the debris.

The injured: William Daugherty, leg broken.

Daugherty had a miraculous escape from death. The upper part of his body was not covered by the debris, and he was released by men working nearby. Hardy came to this county from Scotland a short time ago. Recently he sent money to pay the passage for his wife and several children and they are now en route to join him.

MINERS SUBMIT SCALE.

Athens, O., April 9.—The miners of the Hocking district in convention here, practically formulated their proposition to the operators in joint conference this afternoon. This report will ask operators to pay the scale of 1903, on most important work, while in minor details some changes will be made.

ESCAPES FROM JAIL DISGUISED AS NUN

Warsaw, April 9.—Disguised as a nun, and with the help of his revolutionary comrades, a political prisoner named Radke has made a sensational escape from custody here.

He had been arrested under suspicion of bomb throwing, after being besieged in his house for two hours. He defended himself with a revolver and was only captured when he was severely wounded. Radke was then taken to the hospital and was there kept under guard of two policemen.

A band of armed men entered the hospital, tied up the porter and forced one of the sisters who tended the patients to give them her gown. Others of the band had meanwhile seized and bound the two policemen.

TRAPS THIEF BY MARKING $5 BILL

Rudolf Derrer Secures Proof Against a Suspected Man by a Clever Plan.

Columbus, April 9.—A clever plan was adopted by Rudolf Derrer to catch the man who, he alleges, has been robbing him. Derrer, who is employed in the malt house of the Hoster brewery, hangs his coat daily in a small closet. In the early part of last week a $19 bill was abstracted from the inside pocket.

Suspicion fell upon Jacob Volt, a tellow workman. To make sure of the man, Derrer took a $5 bill and picked the letters "R. D." with a pin point into the center of it, where they would not be detected except with a microscope and when placed in front of a strong light.

After putting into his notebook the serial letter and number and certain marks which characterized the piece of paper, he placed it in his coat, which he again hung in the closet.

Derrer informed Patrolman C. C. Newport of what he had done and whom he suspected. As Volt left the brewery the officer arrested him. When he was searched at the city prison the marked $5 was found concealed in his sock. A comparison with the notes in Derrer's book proved that the money belonged to the complainant.

BALLOON REGISTERS AIR FIVE MILES UP

At 37,000 Feet the Mercury Goes to Zero Point.

Vienna, April 9.—Fifty thousand feet is the height a balloon sent up by the Austrian Meteorological Society has reached. This society has been conducting for some time a series of experiments with balloons equipped with thermometers, barometers and other weather and atmospheric self-recording instruments.

The balloon reaching over 50,000 feet registered a temperature of 58 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. The lowest temperature recorded was obtained last April, when 112 degrees below zero was registered at a height of 37,666 feet.

REVOLUTION ENDED.

Washington, April 9.—Commander Southernland cables the State Department from Monte Cristi, San Domingo, that the revolution has ended.

SECRETARY HOUCK RETURNS TO CAPITAL

(Special to Advocate.)

St. Vernon, April 9.—Mrs. Lewis M. Houck, wife of the governor's private secretary, is ill here with measles. The home of Mr. Houck has been quarantined by the board of health. It was first thought Mr. Houck could not return to Columbus to resume his duties but as he does the disease himself years ago the doctors thought it safe to allow him to return.

Last week, Mrs. Houck visited in Columbus, and as the disease is prevalent there it is believed that she contracted it there. Dan Houck, the bright little son of the secretary, is also immune.

Secretary Houck returned to Columbus this afternoon much improved in health. He came home last week almost ill.

On American Law.

Berlin, April 9.—Judge Adolf Hartmann of Berlin, who was the German representative at the St. Louis congress of lawyers and who spent 15 months traveling in the United States in order to study court proceedings and American legal institutions, has just published an exhaustive treatise on American law. It includes practical suggestions for the reform in German court proceedings, which is scheduled for the next decade. Judge Hartmann says he found many innovations in the United States of which he recommends limited imitation in Germany, such as conditional sentences delayed during good behavior and juvenile courts.

Zion People Applaud New Leader's
Address—Missouri Discipline
are Loyal However.

San Antonio, Tex., April 9.—Dr. Dowie is today an exemplification of the mighty fallen. Once leading men by the sheer force of a dominant personality, the former wielder of the millions stored in Zion's treasury and industries that sits weakly in a hotel room here today and curses his downfall is not the Dowie who swayed thousands. Never physically imposing, Dowie today seems shriveled. His overseas says the desertion of his wife and son have shivered his soul and Dowie's body seems to have withered with it. His face in repose is subdued like that of a man beaten and the flesh is not of a ruddy hue. His shoulders droop pathetically and eyes, when women sympathizing approach him, are appealing. It is only when talking of his wrongs, of the men who, wishing him dead, that his mantle may fall upon them that the old, fierce assertiveness is seen. Then as one arising from a lethargy and drawing from the forces of an unconquerable will he breaks out in bitter denunciation of Overseer Voliva, Grainger, his son, and wife and those who have fostered the revolution against the first apostle's rule. In public Dowie speaks bravely and looks brave, but his words have a hollow ring and his bravery is but a cloak.

San Antonio, Tex., April 9.—The train bearing northward Doctor J. Alexander Dowie was delayed here and this was taken advantage of by the local Zionists, who arranged for a meeting. Preacher Hall made the statement that every man, woman and child in Texas who was connected with the Zionist movement endorsed everything that the "first apostle" had done and believed thoroughly in his innocence.

When Dowie entered the hall the audience arose and sang a hymn of praise as he walked down the center aisle, bowing and uttering "God be with thee." For 10 minutes Dowie and the audience prayed together to banish the devil from Zion. Then Dowie told his story to the expectant people. His entire address was centered about the subjects of polygamy and the conduct of his wife. The audience was with him in all that he said, even when he bitterly disparaged Mrs. Dowie. A dramatic incident occurred after Dowie had been speaking about 20 minutes, when Mrs. Emma Rapp arose and endorsed the work of the former leader of Zion. Dowie closed with a passionate peroration in which he declared that so long as breath remained in his body he would fight for the rehabilitation of Zion.

FROM THE PULPIT

Dowie Denounced in the Tabernacle at Zion City.

Zion City, Ill., April 9.—Denizens of Zion City heard their former leader, John Alexander Dowie, denounced from the pulpit in Shiloh tabernacle, and they approved of it, or at least as many of them as could crowd into the vast meeting house signified their willingness to follow General Overseer Voliva. Zion's new leader told of D. Dowie's alleged misdeeds, and the more bitter and scathing his words of denunciation, the more general and enthusiastic was the approval of his listeners. When after denouncing Dowie as a "spendthrift," a "liar" and a "traitor to his trust and his people," Overseer Voliva suddenly demanded a decision of the audience as to who should be their future leader, the six thousand people in the tabernacle arose as one person and signified their willingness to follow Voliva to the end.

There was no one in the tabernacle who showed more approval of his remarks than Overseer Jane Dowie, the wife for 20 years of John Alexander Dowie, and the mother of his three children. When Voliva in angry tones

LOCAL BASEBALL SEASON OPENS
AND KING COMPANY WON GAME

Pitcher John Phillips Who Gets a Tryout With Newark, Pitched Good Game--Billy Purtell's Brother
Was a Star.

Nearly three hundred fans, each one eager to hear the crack of the bat as the leather covered sphere is cracked to the outfield, gathered for the opening of the baseball season in Newark Sunday afternoon. It was a good game for the opening game of the season, especially for amateurs. There were several good features about the game and for six or seven innings it was close and exciting, just the sort of a game that died in the wool fans like.

And just to their liking, the home team, this time it was the King company team of the City league, won out just as it seemed that the visiting team, the Armbrusters of Columbus, were about to carry off the prize. A good half hour before the scheduled time for the opening of the game a good crowd had gathered to witness the work out of the City leaguers. Owing to the threatening weather, Fox decided that it would be a good plan to call the game a little earlier and it was about 2:45 when the first ball was thrown.

Pitcher John Phillips, who is to get a tryout with Manager Bates' team, was on the rubber for the King company team and his pitching was of a superb quality for an amateur. He let the Columbus bats down in a very graceful manner, with but three bingles and two of these were credited to the little sawed-off and hammered down shortstop, Purtell by name, who was the real star of the Columbus aggregation. No dear fans, it was not Billy Purtell, formerly of the Newark team, but it was his brother, and aside from his size, he is a dead ringer for the ever popular third baseman.

Through several plays not quite up to the standard, the Columbus boys were able to show one man across the home plate early in the game. Butler of Columbus, succeeded in puzzling Manager Fox's bunch for five innings and then he went to the bat and allowed several hits at critical moments and the sixth inning brought in four runs for Newark.

In the fifth and ninth Phillips was again touched up and Armbrusters scored a run each frame. And again in the eighth Butler was hit for two runs, these being helped with a few clunkers by the visitors. Purtell, of Columbus, was the whole show. He was a little fellow, and the fans fell in love with his style at once. He was in the game at all points and when First Baseman Keyley threw to third in the fifth, Purtell was on hand to back up the third baseman and took the over-throw in great shape. He is a comer and with a few more years on his shoulders, he will be in fast company.

The batteries were Phillips and Doherty for Newark, and Butler and Dunnehan for Columbus.

BILL VIEBAH

Who Reported at Denison For Football, Signs With New Castle as Pitcher.

The New Castle Herald in Saturday's paper prints a picture of Bill Viebahn as one of the new pitchers who is signed by Percy Stetler for that team. Viebahn is none other than the big fullback who blew into Greenville last fall and wanted to try for that position of the Denison football team. Viebahn is one of the finest developed fellows physically seen on the athletic fields at Greenville and there is no doubt but that he will make good with Percy's bunch. Viebahn returned to his home with a "homesick" tag attached to him as his excuse for not staying.

SUNDAY NIGHT AND RE-PORTS TO BATES.

The Man Looks Good and Will No

Class Fielder.

The following players of the Newark O. & P. team have already reported:
Manager Bates.
Outfielder Snyder.
First Baseman Snodgrass.
Pitcher John Phillips.
Outfielder E. L. Bradley.

Bradley was first.
The big outfielder blew into the baseball camp last night. Under the head date of April 8, Sunday, the name of "E. L. Bradley, Denver, Newark Baseball Club," was spread, showing that he was the first man to come in to Manager Bates' fold.

Bradley was on deck during the evening and succeeded in getting in with Bates on an invitation to Bruno to a big fish supper with the police officers and other city officials. He was up and doing at the Manhattan hotel this morning.

The outfielder is a big fellow. His shoulders are broad and he is built for a hitter of the first water. Unless his appearances are deceiving the man will make good in the right sort of way.

Snodgrass and Snyder have been in town during the greater part of the winter so they were ready to report
most any time.

POLICE COURT

A goodly bunch of plain drunks
were fined in police court Monday morning. The officers were busy during the afternoon and evening. One young man, whose name was withheld from the reporters because he was a railroad employe, shed bitter tears when he pleaded guilty to a drunk charge. He had mixed up with bad company, and was in pretty bad shape. His mother called at Mayor McCleery's house Sunday night to plead for her son and went security for his fine and costs. The mayor delivered a good lecture to the young man, and it was his first experience in court. He was truly penitent and wept bitterly when told that his mother had interceded for him. With trembling hands he signed the agreement to pay the amount assessed and he uttered sincere words of thanks for the leniency of the court in permitting him to furnish security for the amount.

The Allen saloon, on Case avenue,
is due for a thorough cleaning out by the police department, and in all probability they will get it at once.
Two young boys, giving their names
as Gilbert Sheridan and Arthur Evans, were arrested on the street for being drunk. Both boys claim they got their liquor at the Allen saloon.
The boys were fined for being drunk
and will be held at the police station awaiting the trial of the saloon keeper in case he is arrested.

Chief Sheridan approached the reporters' desk in police court immediately after the case had been disposed of. "You reporters will please state that the Sheridan boys is no relation of mine." The promise was given and the chief smiled sweetly.

HIS OWN PISTOL
USED BY SLAYER

Bartender Demanded Wages Due
Him, and Upon Refusal Killed
His Employer.

Cincinnati, April 9.—Henry J.
Werbel, a saloon keeper at Harrison and Winchell avenues, was shot and instantly killed by a man said to be his bartender, George Dwyer, last night, shortly after 7 o'clock. Dwyer had been drinking yesterday and returned to the saloon about 7 o'clock, where Werbel was talking to Henry Kindeman.

According to Kindeman, Dwyer called Werbel aside, and demanded his wages for the past six days, amounting to $6.40. Werbel refused, stating that he would not pay an employe on Sunday. After some argument, Dwyer, it is said, pulled a gun and pointing it at his employer, told him to turn over the money.

Werbel again refused, and began throwing some beer glasses at Dwyer.
Three shots rang out from a revolver and a dozen beer glasses were thrown. At the third shot Werbel threw his hands above his head and fell backwards. One of the bullets had taken effect, entering the brain
two inches above the right ear.

After the shooting Dwyer backed out of the saloon, pointing the revolver at the frightened customers.
A man named Kenseel started after him, but he ran down Harrison avenue and disappeared into an alley running toward the B. & O. railroad yards, in Brighton. The shooting was probably done with Werbel's own revolver, a .32 caliber gun, which was missing from the drawer where it was kept. Other employes of the place stated that Dwyer had taken it out when he left the saloon Saturday night.

Dwyer came to this city from Dayton, O., about four months ago. He had been working at Werbel's saloon about a week, but during that time had no quarrel with Werbel, except that the latter had remonstrated with him once or twice for "drinking too much."

YALE'S "WATER WAGON"

Latest Student Enterprise to Help Pay College Expenses.

THRIVING TRADE IN VARIOUS LINES

No Excuse For Socks Full of Holes, Buttonless Shirts or Shoes Without Soles—Moving and Storage Company Planned—A Freshman's Experience With Trade Solicitors.

The Yale "water wagon," with the trade mark, "Cleanliness Before God-liness—but Here You Get Them Both," is the latest commercial enterprise of Yale students that recently made its appearance on the Yale campus, says
the New Haven correspondent of the Boston Herald. The spirit of commercialism has been growing steadily within the radius of the university boundaries until now no less than half a dozen corporations are either bumbling along with Yale men behind them or are as yet in their state of infancy with a glimmering future before them.

About a year and a half ago two Yale students started "The University Suit Pressing company." Business came with a rush. A committee of New Haven tailors and cleaners called on President Hadley, so the story goes,
and asked him to put a stop to this new commercial enterprise, but he told them that it was not within his province to interfere as long as the students backing the enterprise maintained their scholarship standing, and that they would have to compete with the college men for the trade. The business has now become so remunerative that it has been decided to bestow the management upon needy and capable under class men when the present owners graduate. It will thus become a sort of beneficiary fund to be handed down from class to class.

Socks full of holes and shirts minus buttons induced another company of Yale men to try their luck running a laundry company. "The Yale Student Laundry" made its appearance with the conspicuous announcement, "Run by college men." The company announced that it would care for all laundry work but soft and starch work and guaranteed to carefully mend all socks and torn underwear. It looked for a time as if there would not be washerwomen enough to be found in the city limits to care for all the clothing that on the first Monday morning poured in to the office of the company. The managers, however, jumped at the chance to make such a rich harvest, and enough washers were secured to cleanse all the clothes of a regiment, and the women whose office was simply to mend and repair were soon driving a thriving business. Now this concern has its own shop and delivery wagon that the students drive themselves, and all the details of the business are managed by Yale men, thus giving work to students who are paying their own way through the university.

Another company recently organized is the "Yale Shoe Repairing company." Weekly calls are made at the dormitories for shoes that need soles, heel-ing or repairing of any kind. The members of this firm have competent shoe-makers to do the work while they solicit the orders and attend to the delivery and other details of the business.

The Yale Mercantile association has been doing business on the Yale campus for some time, and through this organization employment is secured for a large number of college men who have to pay a part of their college expenses.

At the junior promenade held in New Haven the latter part of last January a number of the Yale men did a big business as amateur florists. During this festival week every year about 200,000 violets are sold to the Yale men for their fair guests. The Yale men made a canvass of the campus weeks before the Yale prom, and armed with big orders, went into the floral markets of New York and brought back to New Haven a ton, more or less, of flowers,
which they sold during the prom week.
They cleared enough to carry them comfortably through the rest of the year. Hereafter violets for Yale events, like the football game and the promenade, will be retailed by the Yale men on the campus.

The "Yale water wagon" is the last commercial enterprise of them all, and although of recent date is already doing a thriving business. The water dispensed by the water wagon is drawn from a spring outside of New Haven.
While plans are as yet immature, another new enterprise will be launched as soon as college closes this summer.
This will be a moving and storage company, which will look after the worldly possessions of the Yale undergraduates while they are home for the summer.

The first two weeks of the fresh-man's stay at Yale he is apt to be visited every evening by from one to ten solicitors, who have everything to sell from a suit of clothes to a cigarette.
The advantages and necessities of class pipes, tobacco, cigarettes, banners, the college paper and various knickknacks are brought to the green freshman by the knowing upper class man, and he invariably succeeds in dumping a large consignment on his victim. He will apparently happen into a victim's room just as a sophomore is putting him through some stunts and will immediately rescue the new man and sell him a class pipe, which the gullible freshman feels obliged to buy. In the course of a couple of years the bunkoed freshman himself squares accounts by operations on the new men coming to college.

S.S.S. PURELY VEGETABLE

The fact that S. S. S. is a purely vegetable preparation, containing not the slightest trace of mineral in any form, has been one of the strongest points in its favor during its forty years of existence. It is recognized everywhere not only as the best of all blood purifiers, but the pure medicine that can be taken with absolute safety by the youngest child or the oldest member of the family. Next in importance to removing the cause of any disease is the condition in which the system is left after a course of medical treatment. Medicines containing mercury, potash or other strong mineral ingredients often do permanent injury by eating out the delicate lining and tissues of the stomach, producing chronic dyspepsia, unfavorably affecting the bowels and so damaging the system that even if the original cause of the disease has been removed, it is left in such a deranged and weakened condition that the health is permanently impaired. S. S. S. enjoys the distinction of being the only blood medicine on the market that does not contain a mineral property in some form. Being made entirely of roots, herbs and barks it is absolutely harmless to any part of the system, and while curing disease adds strength and health to every part of the body. S. S. S. removes all poisons, freshens and purifies the blood and gives better and more lasting results than any other blood medicine. S. S. S. is the very best treatment for Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison and all troubles due to an impure or poisoned blood supply. Besides being the King of blood purifiers S. S. S. is the best and most invigorating of all tonics.

Next Thursday evening the Crescent rink will give the "Picture Hat Carnival" announced some time ago. This is something entirely new and promises to be a grand success. $5.00 in gold will be the prize for the prettiest ladies hat, and a pair of nickel-plated club skates will be presented to the lady wearing the next prettiest hat.

The judges will award the prizes from their observation of the hats as they appear on the floor and not by close inspection. This will enable the ladies to get up a hat of tissue paper or any other inexpensive material, trim them with artificial flowers, etc., and possibly carry off the prize. The cost of the hat will not be considered in awarding prizes.

Special musical programs will be arranged for the occasion and skating will continue until 10:30.

Skates can be reserved for this attraction by securing tickets in advance.

APOSTLES

Tender Their Resignations to the Mormon Conference.

Salt Lake City, April 9. — As foreshadowed by President Joseph F.
Smith at his opening address before the Mormon conference, two members were dropped from the quorum of 12 apostles at the church election. When the nominations were about to be read Apostle F. L. Lyman announced that Apostles M. F. Cowley and J. W. Taylor had tendered their resignations on Oct. 23 for the reason that they were not in harmony with the quorum.
Taylor and Cowley are the polygamist apostles who could not be found when they were subpoenaed before the senate committee on the Smoot investigation. At that time they were believed to be in Canada. The recent death of M. W. Merrill has caused another vacancy in the quorum, and the three places were filled.

BLACK HAND CRIMES

HIGH HANDED OPERATIONS OF AN OUTLAWED SOCIETY.

The Brigandage That Flourishes in Large American Cities and How It Is Checked by Detective Sergeant Petrosino in New York.

HE outrages recently committed by members of the Black Hand society have aroused widespread indignation against this vicious and criminal band. This brigandage should flourish in the most thickly settled parts of the United States.

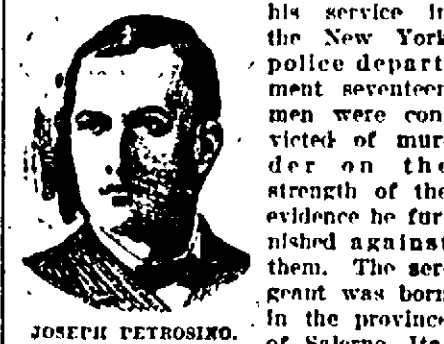

At the first glance passing strange. The aggravating character of the situation is intensified by the boldness with which the crimes are committed and the dastardly nature of many of the deeds that can be traced to members of the proscribed order. There has been a very large immigration into the United States in recent years from Sicily and southern Italy. Many such have settled in or about New York city, and they form communities of their own, regarding which the residents of neighboring districts know comparatively little. Owing to the secrecy surrounding the operations of criminal clans and the fear that honest Italians entertain of the Black Hand and similar societies it is very difficult for the police to cope with the problem.

"Organizations akin to the Black Hand have existed in Italy for centuries and have sometimes become entrenched in power in commerce and even in politics, intimidating their opponents and accomplishing their objects through systematic and wholesale blackmail. Italian immigrants to this country have been so familiar with such conditions that they have come to take them much as a matter of course. But the menace of the Black Hand has aroused the better class of citizens of Italian lineage to action, and they have organized to devise ways of checking the lawless Sicilian element. It is known that in the past year the Black Hand conspirators succeeded in extorting fully $1,000,000 from numerous victims by threats of violence. Unlike the Mafia and the Camorra societies, the Black Hand exists for the purpose solely of levying blackmail. Its scheme is to terrorize its victims into submitting to whatever demands may be made. If the person selected as prey does not at once respond to the demands he is usually sent a letter signed with a single cross. Next comes one signed with a double cross, if he still persists in refusing to disgorge, and afterward a third signed by three crosses may be received. The fourth note is inscribed with four crosses in blood on the black figure of a human hand. There are few Italians who have the nerve to await the coming of the letter with the four crosses. The Black Hand outlaws kidnap children, blow up buildings with dynamite and assassinate with equal ease and skill.

The work of preventing, as far as possible, the despicable operations of this society has been entrusted by the New York police department to Detective Sergeant Joseph Petrosino. Other detectives work under his direction. Petrosino has a remarkable record for apprehending offenders of the class he is employed to catch. In one year of his service in the New York police department seventeen men were convicted of murder on the strength of the evidence he furnished against them. The sergeant was born in the province of Salerno, Italy. In 1861, and, coming to this country at nine years of age, joined the New York police force in 1883, when twenty-two. He is of powerful physique, and his nerve is illustrated by the way in which he made the arrest of Giuseppe Gulliano in 1896. Gulliano had enticed a homeward bound fellow countryman into a dive and given him knockout drops, afterward robbing him. Petrosino located his man on the third floor of a house in the Italian section, and the pair wrestled and rolled down the stairs from the third floor to the street. The detective got his prisoner as far as a sewer opening, over which they fought for ten minutes until Petrosino finally forced the man's head into the opening and threatened to throw him into the sewer. Gulliano went to People's Flight at Vesuvius.

The plight of the people whose homes and lives are threatened by the eruption of Vesuvius is surely a most pitiable one. They are powerless to arrest the flow of the fiery stream toward their habitations and can only hope and pray that the eruption may cease or the course of the lava be diverted by means other than their own exertions. At any time also the eruption may become suddenly so violent as to be the means of destroying them before they can escape, as was the case at St. Pierre, in Martinique, a few years ago. The wonder is that with such a danger known to be ever present people should continue to make their residence in such a place. Some villages are said to have been destroyed several times by eruptions of Vesuvius, but each time they were rebuilt, and now again they are threatened with annihilation. The love of their native soil is certainly strong in the hearts of the people who dwell under the shadow of Vesuvius. But in addition to this it is probable that many of them have nowhere else to go, and therefore are compelled to cling to the spots which they own despite the constant danger to their lives and property.

KAISER MAY GO TO WAR

So Anxious is He to Maintain Prestige as the "First Man of Europe."

Berlin, April 9.—The kaiser is determined to stand before the world as the defender of Europe, according to information which comes from an intimate of the German court.

The Algeiras conference is the first toward the realization of the ambition. The kaiser has thus far demonstrated that he is a factor to be counted in any question of international matters in Europe. He insisted that there should be a conference. Nobody wanted a conference, but the kaiser wanted one, and he had his own way.

He is so gratified by this initial success that it is believed he will not yield in his demands in regard to Morocco unless he sees that he can turn such yielding to good account for himself. The kaiser strongly believes that England is so desirous of peace that she will keep clear of war at any cost, while France is in no position to wage a great war. As for Russia, she is powerless.

The possibility of England and France joining hands and unitedly fighting Germany is a contingency that the German Emperor poohpoohs. He is so insistent upon the achievement of his designs to be the "First Man of Europe" that his more moderate ministers who are urging conciliation are having an unhappy time. The kaiser will not tolerate their views.

MASONIC TEMPLE

At Cambridge to Be Dedicated on May 23 With Most Imposung Ceremonies.

Cambridge, April 9.—Cambridge Lodge No. 66, Free and Accepted Masons, will dedicate their magnificent new temple in this city on Wednesday May 23. This decision was reached at a meeting held Tuesday night, when it was decided that the Blue lodge shall conduct the exercises.

The following committee was appointed to make arrangements: L. R. Campbell, C. S. Turnbaugh, M. R. Potter, F. L. Schick, J. M. Wood and S. M. Hyde.

Grand Master Lewis P. Schaum of Newark, will be present and conduct the ceremony.

The regular dedicatory exercise will occur in the afternoon, and will be a purely blue lodge function, which will thus include every Mason in Cambridge and vicinity. In the evening a reception will be held.

PUBLIC ROBBERY IN INDIANA

Republican State Officials Get $300,000 of the State's Money—Sensational Investigation Report.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 9.—The final report of the investigating committee that has been at work in the state auditor's office has been completed. It is said to cover every phase of the work done. It finds, among other things:

That ex-Auditors Rice, Carr, Henderson and Daly took fees and moneys that belonged to the state—Rice to the extent of about $110,000, Carr about $75,000; Henderson about $30,000, and Daly about $25,000. All these were Republican officials whose power for peculation was without hindrance after the party's control became supreme in the state.

Suits are now pending against Henderson and Daly. It is understood that the state cannot recover from either the Rice or the Carr estate, and the attempt will be made to collect from the insurance companies the taxes illegally paid to these auditors by the companies. This amounts to about $25,000 in each case.

BURNED TO DEATH PINNED BENEATH TRAIN WRECKAGE

Conductor and Engineer Perish in the Crash of Engine and Caboose at Keyser, W. Va.

Cumberland, Md., April 9.—A runaway B. & O. railroad yard engine crashed into a string of cabooses standing on a side track in the Keyser, W. Va., yards Saturday evening, smashing the cabs, killing two men, and seriously injuring two others one of whom soon died.

The dead:—J. W. Jennings, conductor, of Brunswick, Md.

M. Keyser, brakeman, of Sandy Hook, Md.

J. L. McKenny, conductor, of Martinsburg, W. Va.

The injured:—W. B. Long, brakeman, of Martinsburg, received a broken leg and his back was injured.

Two yard engines sidwiped in the Keyser yards, one tearing away the cab of the other, which threw the engineer and fireman out, and threw the throttle of the wrecked engine wide open. This engine ran away down the side track into the cabooses and crashed them against a string of steel hoppers, telescoping three cabooses in which several trainmen were sleeping.

The cabooses, reduced almost to kindling, caught fire and the bodies of the two men who were killed were horribly burned before they could be taken from the wreckage. They were removed to the morgue.

McKenny and Long were taken from the wreck to the hospital. Conductor Jennings and Brakeman Keyser were not instantly killed, but were pinned beneath the wreck and burned to death, their bodies being unrecognizable. Both men cried to be released from the wreckage and every effort was made to save them, without avail. The Keyser fire department responded promptly but the wreckage was burned, and the men were dead before the fire was subdued.

Brakeman J. L. McKenny died at 9 o'clock. Yard Fireman W. H. Steye, knocked from the yard engine, was severely bruised. McKinney received his injuries in jumping from the caboose.

AMUSEMENTS

Joseph is a colored man who has been in the employ of the Beach Front hotel for a good many years, says John Carmel, the room shouter, who is to appear here with Vogel's Big Minstrels. He was seemingly an old man when there, and, strange as it may seem, he had not grown younger since.

The other day one of the persons stopping at the hotel undertook to ask him a few questions about himself.

"You're a rather old man, Joseph?"

"Yas Sir, yas, I'm rather old man, boss."

"Well, how old are you, Joseph?"

"Gouldn't say, zactly, boss; I mus be 'long 'bout 50 now, I don't quit countin' birthdays when I was 50."

"But you're pretty hearty looking. Do you come of a healthy family?"

"Ded I do that? Mother was jes sayin' the very thing only las' night."

"Who was?"

"Ma mother."

"Your mother? Why, where's she?"

The questioner expected to hear that Joseph was a Spiritualist and had just been attending a seance, but the negro quietly replied:

"Why, mother's home's up at Marietta, but she's down here just now."

"Do you mean to say your mother is in Atlantic City?"

"Yassir, she's jes' down here payin' a little visit to her grandmother."

ODD FELLOWS

Of Ohio Had Busy Year—Grand Secretary Lyman's Annual Report.

Charles H. Lyman, grand secretary of the Odd Fellows of Ohio, has completed this report for the year ending December 31, 1905. The report shows that there has been a large growth in the number of members and lodges during that time, and that it is financially as solid as the most hopeful of the members could desire. A few figures will show the condition of the order in this state:

Number of lodges in good standing Dec. 31, 744, a gain of 5; number of members, 76,808, a gain of 1761; members relieved, 7303; widowed families relieved, 681; weeks of benefits paid, 61,545. The cash receipts were $701,329.59; relief paid out, $238,650.37; current expenses, $407,976.22; total disbursements, $644,626.60; total assets, $2,595,081.15. The average daily relief paid out was $651.83; average sick benefits paid, $23.27; average cost per member for the year, $2.21; total cost per member for all purposes, $8.41; average number of members to each lodge, 103.

Secretary Lyman has received a communication requesting him to be on the lookout for a man giving the name of Augustus Hegman. The letter said that the man claimed to be traveling for a Sandusky firm, and that he belonged to a lodge in Shawnee, and he was desirous of having some checks cashed. The writer said he had communicated with the firm and with the lodge, and neither of them had ever heard of the man.

MISS KIBLER

Newark's Talented Pianist Wins Laurels at a Musicales Given in Carnegie Hall, New York.

The Brooklyn Standard of April 3 contains the following account of the appearance of Miss Dorothy Kibler, of this city, at a recent noted musicale given at Carnegie Hall, New York. The many friends of Miss Kibler and her family will be highly interested in this marked evidence of her success. She is an artist whose technique is not only brilliant but almost absolutely correct. Her future as a virtuoso is assured.

Meizar Chaffee, the violinist, who has recently returned to his native land, after many European successes, gave the second of his delightful musicals last week at his studio in Carnegie Hall, assisted by Joseph, talented artist pupil, Dorothy Kibler of Ohio. A very fashionable audience was enthusiastic over the beautiful music which was so ably interpreted. Miss Kibler is a charming artist, has a brilliant technique, coupled with great musical intelligence and is a remarkable ensemble player. Her solos were the Liszt "Liebestraum" and C sharp minor Chopin waltz. Mr. Chaffee played for his solo numbers the celebrated Bach air, the Svendsen Romance and Dvorak's "Humoresque." A very artistic program, splendidly rendered.

The sale is made in foreclosure of the mortgage held by the eastern bondholders.

WITH POLICE

San Francisco Socialists Clash in the Streets.

San Francisco, April 9.—A riot took place following a meeting of Socialists held in sympathy with Moyer and Haywood, arrested in connection with the assassination of ex-Governor Steiueberg of Idaho. The meeting was held in a hall and at its close an impromptu parade was started toward the business district. A halt was made at Lotta's fountain and one of the paraders climbed to the pedestal and placed on top of it a red banner bearing the inscription "the constitution is damned." Another Socialist started to address the crowd when a squad of police arrived to disperse the gathering. A fight followed and about 15 of the crowd were landed in the patrol wagon with damaged skulls. The crowd then dispersed.

Queen Alexandra and the dowager empress of Russia have jointly purchased a country residence at Hyblere, four miles from Copenhagen.

So-called pride prevents some men from riding on the water wagon.

GRANVILLE NEWS

Granville, April 9.—Mr. Charles Weston, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Weston, died at the home of his parents in Granville on Sunday evening at 6:15 o'clock, after a lingering illness. The deceased was one of the best known and most popular young men in Granville, was 24 years of age. He served through the Spanish-American war, and on his return home accepted a position as salesman in the grocery store of C. L. Conrad, Newark, which he held for two years, when on account of failing health, he went to California, where he remained for about two years, returning home about two months ago. He is survived by his parents and two sisters and one brother, being Mrs. Mary Wells of Grand Island, Neb., Mrs. C. S. Malone of Ottawa, O., and Frank Weston of Granville. At this writing no arrangements have been made for the funeral.

Granville is ready for her spring festival and will show her appreciation of the event by closing the business houses for the symphony concert Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The university and public schools will also enjoy a holiday in honor of the occasion. Single tickets with reserved seats may be had at the book store for 50 cents; school children, general admission, 25 cents. Tickets sold at the door. There will be a late train Thursday night for the accommodation of T. and O. C. passengers.

MT. VESUVIUS

(Continued from Page 1.) are terror-stricken. They have been for nights without sleep, he says, are destitute, and beg that assistance be given them. The work of success is hampered owing to delays to the railway service, which is interrupted by red-hot stones, thrown to a height of 3,000 feet, falling on the tracks.

As yet it is impossible to count the craters that have opened and from which streams of lava have flooded the beautiful and prosperous districts on the southeast shores of the Gulf of Naples. The atmosphere is heavily charged with electricity, and now and then the flashes of lightning are blinding, while the detonations from the volcano resemble those of terrible explosions.

TERRORS OF VESUVIUS. Vesuvius is the most celebrated volcano of the earth. It has been intermittently in eruption since the beginning of human history and has wrought more damage than any other. There are no records preserved of eruptions of Vesuvius prior to the terrible destruction of Herculaneum and Pompeii, in 79 A. D. It is, however, known that it had long been the scene of volcanic disturbances. The mountain is frequently mentioned by old writers, and Diodorus Siculus said it showed in his time, (about 50 B. C.) many signs of having been burning in ancient times. Its most famous and disastrous eruption broke the mountain into two cones, which still exist. Subsequent to the destruction of Pompeii and Herculaneum there were many fatal lava flows. Some of these of which records have been preserved were in A. D. 223, 472, 512, 685, 938, 1013, 1198 and 1306.

The eruptions of A. D. 472 and 1308 were the most notable. In the former year ashes from the crater were carried as far as Constantinople and across the sea to Tripoli. In the last-named year the eruption was accompanied by terrible earthquakes, which destroyed many lives.

From 1306 to 1631, with the exception of a slight eruption in 1500, the terrible mountain was quiet, but her neighbor, Aetna, kept "blazing" at intervals. The Vesuvius eruption of 1631 lasted three months, and was accompanied by streams of lava and torrents of boiling water, which overflowed the towns at the base of the mountains. Thousands of lives were lost.

A number of other lava flows followed before 1700. The eruptions increased in frequency in the eighteenth century. That of 1772 was remarkable. It has been described as the grandest of all these phenomena. White smoke rose four times as high as the mountain and spread out proportionately. Stones and ashes were thrown 10,000 feet in the air. One of the rocks was 100 feet in circumference.

Another eruption in 1794 destroyed a town and threw a great stream of lava, estimated to contain 45,000,000 cubic feet.

The last century was a busy one for the volcano. It was in eruption nearly 30 times. In 1822, 1825, 1838, 1867, and 1872 were the most disastrous. It closed work for the century in 1897.

The present eruption is second in the record of terror for the twentieth century, the mountain having been last active in 1900.

exclaimed, "I will see that all the costly furniture and expensive library adorning Dowie's Zion City residence, and which were purchased by that hypocrite while many of his people were in need of food, are sold and the money turned into Zion storehouses." Mrs. Dowie half rose from her seat and applauded the speaker. Overseer Voliva told how money had been spent for Dowie's own comfort while the creditors and the people of Zion were demanding money. Voliva declared that he had been sending the storehouse at Zion City an average of $1,700 a month, and that the other deacons are doing the same kind of missionary work for the church. That the other deacons doing the same kind of missionary work had done fully as well for the church. He informed his listeners that the greater portion of these funds had been squandered by Dowie.

Dowie Pronounced Sane. Pittsburg, April 9.—John Alexander Dowie, the deposed prophet of Zion City, submitted himself to a week's examination as to his sanity by an alienist in Mexico because his wife and the faithful believed him crazy," said Elder F. G. Hendrickson, who passed through this city from New York to Chicago. "Two weeks ago in San Luis Potosi, a little Mexican village, where he could avoid publicity, Dowie allowed himself to be put under surveillance by a prominent English alienist now in Mexico, and was pronounced absolutely sane and rational."

Will Support Dowie. St. Louis, April 9.—A large gathering of the followers of John Alexander Dowie held here declared in favor of supporting him, and denounced the charges formulated by Overseer Voliva as a "wicked and malicious betrayal of a sacred trust and the work of the devil."

Dump Dowie. London, April 9.—The Zionist church here confirmed the deposition of John Alexander Dowie.

MOST'S FAMILY IS DESTITUTE

AND ONLY $14 WAS CONTRIBUTED FOR THE FUNERAL EXPENSES

At a Meeting Held in His Honor in Cincinnati Sunday Afternoon $400 Being Needed.

Cincinnati, O., April 9.—A meeting in memory of the late Johan Most, the anarchist, was held in Central Turner Hall yesterday afternoon. About 60 persons were in attendance. An invitation had been given to the Herwegh Maennerchor to sing at the meeting. The excuse was given that some of the members were absent from the city. The meeting was presided over by David Baas. He spoke briefly of the dead anarchist, styling him as the "General of the Rebels," and eulogizing his work for the cause of anarchy, and asserting that his deeds would live after him and bear good results.

Dr. Alfred Swing, known as a Social Democrat, spoke in English. He gave a resume of the life of Most, and said he never harmed any one except with his tongue. The speaker said the trouble with society today was that not enough persons spoke freely what they thought, because of fear. He declared that the time would come when the people would build monuments to Most, though that time may be a long way in the future. Martin Drescher, editor of the Chicago Arbeiter Zeitung, speaking in German, said practically the same things that Dr. Swing did. Drescher said it had been Most's intention to take up the battle for the Western miners, and that he was preparing to do so when death overtook him.

Julius Zorn spoke along the same lines as the others, but said that some thought Most too radical and that he injured the cause of the working men. That, however, was a matter that time alone could demonstrate. Yet he thought there was possibly much truth in Most's theories.

A collection was taken up to be used to defray the funeral expenses of Most. But $14 was obtained, while $60 was needed. Aid was also asked for the family of Most, as he left them in bad condition financially.

SKIPPED

With $10,000 Which His Devoted Wife Entrusted to Him—Police Are Notified.

Cincinnati, O., April 9.—Mrs. Clara Copenhager has asked the police to locate her husband, Walter M. Boland, a 32 degree Mason.

While rooming in the Queen Anne, Bowland who afterward became head waiter at the Manhattan restaurant, gained the acquaintance and love of Mrs. Copenhager, a widow 45 years of age. They soon married in Indiana, and removing to Indianapolis, bought out a restaurant and hotel called "The Inn," and began business on a large scale. With a month's rent Bowland shipped to Louisville, and his wife caused his arrest on the charge of grand larceny.

A reconciliation followed, and the two were reunited but later he caused her to sell the place for $10,000, and as she was departing to visit friends at Home City, he asked her to reposit the funds with him. She did, but on returning found he had skipped for parts unknown. She came back after having hypothesized jewelry and asked the local police to locate her husband, who is in Detroit, Mich. Bowland ran away two weeks ago.

Fine Building Lots.

Do you know that the most desirable residence section of Newark lies between North Williams street and Linden avenue on the Cassingham and Stump addition. Cement walks, graded street, good water, dry cellars. Five to ten minutes walk to all West End factories. Within two squares of the Granville and city car lines. Had good success with this addition last year, several houses having been built. About 20 desirable lots left. Prospective buyers are invited to inspect this addition. C. E. Cochran, 666 W. WALD ORF ASTOR'S FIANCEE ILL; WEDDING MAY BE DELAYED

Mrs. Nanette Langhorne Shaw.

New York, April 9.—Mrs. Nanette Langhorne Shaw, young Mr. Waldorf Astor's fiancée, is seriously ill with influenza, and all preparations for the wedding are at a standstill. Mrs. Shaw has been feeling bad for a week.

PANIC NARROWLY AVERTED
IN NEWARK CHURCHES

An Explosion at the Citizens Electric Light Plant Blew Out a Cylinder Head and the Places of Worship Were Thrown Into Darkness—No One Was Hurt.

A panic was narrowly averted in the many churches of the city, by the bursting of a cylinder in the engine of the Citizens Electric Light and Fuel company's plant near First street at 7.40 last night. Fortunately no one was seriously injured by the explosion although the excitement in the churches, and especially St. Paul's Episcopal Lutheran, which is located directly in front of the plant, came close to resulting in serious injury to many. The crowds began a rush for the doors, and were only quieted by the greatest effort on the part of the more cool-headed members of the congregation.

The cause for the accident is unknown. At shortly before 8 o'clock, the lights all over the city were extinguished. Those who were in the churches at the time were quieted and requested to remain seated, which they did until the alarm of fire was rung from the central station. The large crowds of people at once arose to their feet and began making a hasty regress from the numerous places of worship. Aside from St. Paul's church possibly the greatest excitement prevailed at the First M. E. church at the corner of Church and Fourth streets, near the central fire station. The church being in utter darkness, the sound of the fire alarm naturally caused the greatest amount of excitement, nearly everyone standing for the exits. Many of the men attempted to calm the excited crowds, which they did after a time. The explosion came with a bursting rush of steam and a roar which terrified the congregation at St. Paul's. The close proximity of the church to the plant, made it seem that the explosion was about the church. At the same instant, the electric lights were all extinguished and the mad rush began. "Rev. T. C. Schmidt, pastor of the church, by special effort finally quieted the excited people, but not however, until the greater part of the congregation had reached the streets and were a-sure that they were in no immediate danger.

It is thought that the accident was due to a key in the piston of the engine working out of place, causing the piston to strike the head of the cylinder. Engineer Donnell of the plant is in no way at fault as the occurrence is one that could not have been foreseen. At the Second Presbyterian church the pastor, Rev. T. A. Cogrove was preaching on the subject of "Darkness at the Cross," and after working up to a rhetorical climax, the speaker made the remark, "and there was darkness from the sixth to the ninth hour." Just at this point the lights were extinguished, and most of the large congregation thought they had been put out to fend for themselves.

From three to four hundred persons had assembled at the First Methodist church to hear Rev. L. C. Sparks on the subject of the Premier murder case. The pastor had just begun to lead up to the body of the discourse, when the lights were extinguished, and as the church is only lighted by electricity, the audience was compelled to sit in darkness. After passing upon the appearance of the congregation in the darkness, Rev. Sparks made the very amusing remark that he hoped that the management of the electric light plant did not think that "one Spark" was not sufficient to light the whole church. The people remained quiet until the fire alarm was rung when it became necessary to dismiss the service.

CLUNG

To the Cross 'Till Exhausted, then Fall Into the Creek and Was Drowned.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 9.—E. Watt Ezell, 21 years old, dropped from the Big Four bridge across Fall creek, Sunday, to escape death under a train, and was drowned. Two companions said that Ezell had time to escape, but he became confused and stopped in the middle of the bridge until it was too late to go either way. Ezell had been in the City Hospital for several weeks suffering from pneumonia and was very weak. His companions said he was a good swimmer, and several witnesses to the tragedy said he swam for several seconds before he became exhausted. Two or three men on the banks of the stream fishing at the time said that Ezell hung from the end of a cross tie for several minutes before he fell into the water. Ezell came from Indianapolis a few months ago from North Carolina.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased. Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Secretary Miller of State Board of Agriculture Passes Away

DIES AT HIS COUNTRY HOME

LIQUOR MEN WILL MEET AND OUTLINE CAMPAIGN

Young Woman Swallows Poison—Fatal Accident Aboard a River Boat—Day's Ohio News.

Columbus, O., April 9.—Intelligence reached here to the effect that W. W. Miller, secretary of the state board of agriculture, died Sunday evening at his farm near Castalia, Erie county. His death is supposed to have been due to apoplexy. Mr. Miller went to his country home Friday evening, and Saturday was stricken with a severe pain in one of his ears. This grew worse, and Sunday morning he became unconscious and passed away in the evening. Mr. Miller was 64 years of age and is survived by his wife and children, Ames Miller of Chicago and Mrs. Paul S. Kreible of Pennsylvania. Mr. Miller was a civil war veteran, serving four years with the Eighth Ohio Infantry, Army of Potomac.

Towboat Explodes.
Pomeroy, O., April 9.—The towboat H. M. Hoyle, while headed for this port with a heavy fleet of empty barges, exploded her boilers at Portland, O. 34 miles above here, and sank with the water over the hull and deck. The boilers blew out forward and wrecked the forward end of the boat. John Moran, fireman, Pittsburg, was knocked overboard and drowned. The injured: Charles Cooper, fireman, Mason, Va., arm broken; John Wheeler, fireman, Pittsburg, fatally scalded; John Casey, fireman, Pittsburg, seriously scalded; Ed McGonigal, lamp trimmer, Pittsburg, blown through roof and fatally injured. The injured were taken to Parkersburg. The boat was owned by the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company of Pittsburg.

Liquor Interests Active.
Cleveland, O., April 9.—The plan of campaign against the constitutionality of the Alkin $1,000 saloon license and the Jones residence district local option laws will be definitely arranged at Columbus Wednesday and Thursday, when the executive committee of the brewers and the wholesale and retail liquor dealers of the state will meet. It is expected that a joint committee will be named to have charge of the coming fight.

Action of the Operators.
Cleveland, O., April 9.—The Ohio coal operators held a largely attended meeting here, at which it was unanimously decided to stand by their previously expressed determination not to grant the demand of the miners for the adoption of the scale of 1905. Resolutions were also adopted strongly criticizing the action of President Robbins of the Pittsburg Coal company for making terms with the miners.

Two Fatally Hurt.
Gallipolis, O., April 9.—The Pittsburg coal combine's towboat Henry Lourey broke a shaft below this city and two men were probably fatally injured. E. Knight of Warren suffered a fracture of his right hip and was internally injured, and James Leemont of Pittsburg was so badly injured that his left leg was amputated. Both men are in the Marine hospital here.

Found Hanging to a Tree.
Akron, O., April 9.—Carl Schmidt, 57, a tinner, who left the county infirmary, where he was an inmate, was found hanging to a tree in a woods overlooking the falls at Cuyahoga Falls. The discovery was made by two boys, who ran two miles to notify Coroner Humphreys. Schmidt had been hanging there about two days. He leaves a widow in this city.

Consumers to Pay Tax.
Cincinnati, O., April 9.—After June 20 the consumer will have to pay the extra $670 tax imposed by the Alkin bill. No free lunch, increased price of bottled beer, 5 cents for a pint instead of for a quart for growlers, and one-third fewer bartenders, is the program proposed by the local brewers' board of trade.

Coal Train Held Up.
Cleveland, O., April 9.—Striking miners held up a Baltimore & Ohio freight train at Barton, O., and compelled the crew to "cut out" eight cars of "scab" coal. The strikers were armed and accompanied their orders with threats of violence. The train was in charge of Conductor Blair of Cleveland.

Girl Attempts Suicide.
Yonkers, N. Y., April 9.—Agnes Powers, 22, attempted to commit sui-side on the courthouse steps. Her cries brought Otto Peterson, a bellboy from a nearby hotel, and she was taken to a hospital. The girl swallowed nearly half an ounce of carbolic acid, but will recover.

WILL MR. STASEL
BE CANDIDATE?

Delaware, O., April 9.—Hon. Harry W. Jewell is a candidate for Circuit Judge. The announcement is made by ex-Senator N. F. Overturf and Mr. Jewell's claims will be presented before the Newark judicial convention on April 24.

Attorney A. A. Stasel of Newark is being urged by his friends to announce himself as a candidate and now has the matter under consideration.

DEVOTION OF A PET COLLIE

Pathetic Scene When It Followed Its Child Mistress to an Ocean Grave.
"Bob, Son of Battle," contains no more touching incident of dog devotion than the story told by the officers of the steamship Columbia of the Anchor line, which recently arrived at New York from Glasgow, says the New York Post.

Among the passengers were Andrew Macdonald and his wife. When the pair took ship at Glasgow they had with them their four-year-old daughter Mary, named after the mother. Scotch physicians had told the Macdonalds that a sea voyage might benefit the life of the girl, who had been very ill. Before sailing Mary insisted that her two pet collie dogs, Daisy and Ben, be taken along, and the first thing the child wanted to know when she arrived at the pier was whether the dogs had been well provided for.

One day when a storm was buffeting the vessel the child became worse and was put to bed. Dr. Bruce, the ship surgeon, remained with her all night, but at 3 o'clock the next morning Mary died from the effects of seasickness. Down where the dogs were chained the stewards say the animals seemed to know that something had happened to their small mistress, for they began to howl shortly after the girl died and could not be quieted.

Shortly after daybreak, there being a spell of good weather, it was decided to bury Mary Macdonald. The body was carried to the deck by two seamen, and while a few passengers and several officers stood bareheaded it was shoved over the rail. Because of the child's love for Daisy and Ben the pets had been brought from below. While the service was being read both dogs were uneasy and tugged at their leashes.

As the small burden was lifted to the rail and fell Daisy, the older dog, broke from the stoward who held her and leaped overboard after the body of her playmate. Ben, too, strained at his strap and howled so frantically that he had to be dragged below.

When last seen the faithful collie was swimming in circles over the spot where little Mary's body had sunk.

PIKE'S PEAK JUBILEE PLANS.

Hundredth Anniversary Celebration to Be Military and Civic.

Colorado Springs, Colo., is making elaborate plans to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the discovery of Pike's peak, says a special dispatch to the Chicago Post. The government will send 10,000 regular troops to take part in the programme in addition to representatives of the various tribes of Indians with whom Pike came into contact on his tollsome march of discovery. Congress probably will authorize the issue of 100,000 souvenir medallions in commemoration of the event. The programme will last one week, beginning Sept. 24. The celebration will be military and civic, to include a sham battle and maneuvers by the troops and the unveiling of a huge granite monument to Pike. Besides the troops, the Indians, the national guard, the cadets and the veterans, cowboys, pioneers, patriotic societies, fraternal societies, educational institutions, historical societies, school children and citizens generally will take part. There will be parades, tournaments of polo and golf, automobile endurance runs, drills, war dances by Indians, cowboy sports and exercises of all kinds typical of the "wild west."

ONLY CLOTHES AND A SOUL

Hindoo University Man Brought Nothing Else to a Police Station.

Joseph Sourran, a Hindoo graduate of the University of Edinburgh, appeared as a penniless wayfarer at the West Forty-seventh street police station in New York the other night and was locked up in a cell for the night, says the New York Times. He was a queer looking individual, tall, gaunt, angular and copper colored, with a peculiar gleam in his deep set eyes that made his appearance decidedly unlike that of the ordinary tramp. He said to Sergeant Faulkner when his address was demanded: "I am a homeless wanderer on the face of the earth." To the question "Have you a knife?" he replied: "I have nothing but my clothes and my soul."

Girls' Antismoking Pledge.
Cigarette smoking among girls is stated by the secretary of the Leeds (England) branch of the Anticigarette league to be on the increase, says the London Express. The practice is particularly prevalent among the factory and warehouse girls of Leeds. Many girls, however, have taken the following pledge:

"I promise, with God's help, to abstain from purchasing or using tobacco in any form, at least until I reach the age of twenty-one, not only for my own sake, but for the good of my country."

The league has now 4,600 pledged members.

The Collar Button Jags.

John Reynolds of Avenue C was recently charged by his wife Jenny in the recorder's court in Bayonne, N. J., with having been drunk, says the New York Times. Said he to Recorder Lazarus: "I was not drunk, your honor—I from it. I merely dropped my collar button, and it rolled beneath the dresser. I searched an hour for it and became so dizzy that perhaps I acted queerly. I didn't find the button." "I have been all through that collar button problem," responded the court. "I sympathize with you. You are discharged."

WHO SHE WAS

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused It to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

This remarkable woman, whose maiden name was Estes, was born in Lynn, Mass., February 9th, 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family. For some years she taught school, and became known as a woman of an alert

Yours for Health
Lydia E. Pinkham

and investigating mind, an earnest seeker after knowledge, and above all, possessed of a wonderfully sympathetic nature.

In 1843 she married Isaac Pinkham, a builder and real estate operator, and their early married life was marked by prosperity and happiness. They had four children, three sons and a daughter.

In those good old fashioned days it was common for mothers to make their own home medicines from roots and herbs, nature's own remedies—calling in a physician only in specially urgent cases. By tradition and experience many of them gained a wonderful knowledge of the curative properties of the various roots and herbs.

Mrs. Pinkham took a great interest in the study of roots and herbs, their characteristics and power over disease. She maintained that just as nature so bountifully provides in the harvest, fields and orchards vegetable foods of all kinds; so, if we but take the pains to find them, in the roots and herbs of the field there are remedies expressly designed to cure the various ills and weaknesses of the body, and it was her pleasure to search these out, and prepare simple and effective medicines for her own family and friends.

Chief of these was a rare combination of the choicest medicinal roots and herbs found best adapted for the cure of the ills and weaknesses peculiar to the female sex, and Lydia E. Pinkham's friends and neighbors learned that her compound relieved and cured it and became quite popular among them.

All this so far was done freely, without money and without price, as a labor of love.

But in 1873 the financial crisis struck Lynn. Its length and severity were too much for the large real estate interests of the Pinkham family, as this class of business suffered most from the fearful depression, so when the Centennial year dawned it found their property swept away. Some other source of income had to be found.

At this point Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was made known to the world.

The three sons and the daughter, with their mother, combined forces to restore the family fortune. They argued that the medicine which was so good for their woman friends and neighbors was equally good for the women of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkham sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combined efforts the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising, and from that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until today Lydia E. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound have become household words everywhere, and many tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed to her reward years ago, but not till she had provided effectively as she could have done its success.

During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and she was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman who applied to her for advice—and there were thousands—received careful study, and the details, including symptoms, treatment and results were recorded for future reference, and today these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent a vast collaboration of information regarding the treatment of woman's ills, which for authenticity and accuracy can hardly be equaled in any library in the world.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham. She was carefully instructed in all her hard-earned knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its origins passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing in the work shows when the first Lydia E. Pinkham dropped her pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham, now the mother of a large family, took it up. With women assistants, some as capable as herself, the present Mrs. Pinkham continues this great work, and probably from the office of no other person have so many women been advised how to regain health. Sick women, this advice is "Yours for Health" freely given if you only write to ask for it.

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; made from simple roots and herbs; the one great medicine for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.

Over Seventy-five Millions In Charity

Personal Side of Andrew Carnegie, the 'World's Great Giver'

The Laird of Skibo, Whose Latest Feat Is Spelling Reform Is Very Democratic and Abhors Shams—A Simple Liver In Spite of His Great Wealth—Steel, Pipe Organs, Libraries and Golf Are His Chief Hobbies

MORE than $75,000,000 in charity! That is the record of Andrew Carnegie. Where did he get it, you ask? Concerning that, deponent saith not. But how he got rid of it all the world knows. The bulk of the sum has gone to the erection of over 1,500 municipal library buildings. Ten millions have been spent on a Carnegie Institute at Pittsburgh, ten millions more to a Carnegie Institution at Washington, and other ten millions to a college professors' pension, still another ten millions to Scottish universities, five millions for a fund to benefit the employees of the Carnegie Steel company, and so the list grows. The latest is a benefaction to bring about simplified spelling. Books will not be so bulky nor education so expensive if our orthography can be shortened up, and as nearly all of the Carnegie donations have been made in book houses and schools the reason for the abbreviated spelling is apparent. Silent letters take up space, time and money. What is the good of a silent letter anyway? If it has nothing to say for itself, out with it. Why build libraries to house silent letters or endow educational institutions to teach congested orthography? Down with the drones of the alphabet. Set every letter to work, make it render service, let it bear its part of the burden of sound, cause it to stand for something or cause it to stand aside.

Great Thing to Educate the World.

If the coming generations of the Anglo-Saxon race do not learn something it will not be the fault of Mr. Carnegie. They may even learn enough to permit some men to make hundreds of millions out of the toll of other men, and he will help to impart that lesson also; involuntarily, it may be, and by example, not by precept; still he will help. It is a great thing to educate the world. He who causes two men to read where only one read before is a benefactor. The same can be said of him who causes two ideas to sprout where only one sprouted before. These paraphrases may do violence to the ancient saw, but life is not all made up of grass blades. Neither is it all made up of dollars. Carnegie's notion is something like an Indian's: That man is greatest, not who acquires most, but who gives most. By this standard he should take his place among the immortals. The steel king enjoys a good story, and he especially appreciated the following: A father told his son that he should always put something into the contribution box for "the Lord loveth a cheerful giver." The boy thought a minute and said, "God must be stuck on Carnegie."

While he has never hid his light under a bushel, but has plastered his name on libraries and other institutions all over America and Great Britain, Mr. Carnegie has still obeyed the injunction about not letting his left hand know what his right hand giveth, for he has been so busy giving with both hands that one did not have time to find out what was done by the other.

Andrew Carnegie has at least four fads—steel, pipe organs, libraries and golf. He may have a still larger collection, but these are the big ones. Future generations will probably remember him chiefly for his libraries, having to put up with the maintenance of them. "The world cannot forget him if it would. At least once a year it will have an eloquent reminder of what he left to posterity."

As to his latest fad of spelling reform, he should not carry it too far, for if he does steel and steel will both be spelled the same way and thus will be removed the slight difference that now exists between them. When the new system of orthography is adopted Carnegie's name will be spelled Car-nay-gie, with the accent on the second syllable. That is the Scotch of it. People now pronounce it in so many different ways that it jumbles up his name. What is the use of having a celebrated name if nobody knows how to pronounce it?

Has Many Good Things About Him.

Carnegie has many good things about him, not as many as he once had by some seventy-five millions, but still enough. For one he is very much of a democrat with a small "d." When he is not too busy giving away money he makes speeches ripping up aristocrats and kings. Nevertheless he entertained Edward VII at his Scottish castle, Skibo. By the way, there is a very fine pipe organ at Skibo and a high-salaried organist to manipulate it. As Edward came up the driveway Carnegie thought it would be a fine thing to greet him with "God Save the

ANDREW CARNEGIE.

King" on the organ. But unfortunately the organist was in the bathtub. Out he was hustled and rushed to the organ, where, hidden behind a magnificent screen, the nude and shivering man scattered melody from his fingers and water from the rest of his anatomy.

Another good thing about Carnegie is that he thinks the more important things in the world than money. In fact, he is quite a believer in poverty—theoretically at least. Most rich men can see the benefits of poverty for other people.

Fifteen Millions a Year.

The "Laird of Skibo" has said that "to die rich is to die disgraced." If that is true he is in a bad way, for he is sixty-nine years old and is a couple of million miles away from a couple of hundred million dollars away from respectability yet. As he is said to be fifteen millions a year, his chance of escaping disgrace is remote. The only hope that is left him is to give Thomas F. Ryan a chance at his fortune. Ryan might succeed in swiping it or Carnegie might invest it in life insurance or the Panama canal. Then, again, he might give congress a whack at it. That body can usually contrive to get rid of a surplus. But the safest plan is known of world to invest it in oil. Rockefeller would love it all inside of a year.

Mr. Carnegie is not a very religious man. In fact, he has been called a liberal, a free-thinker and even an atheist. The last designation certainly does not belong to him, even though the others may. One thing is certain, he is not orthodox. He has often stated that he does not believe in annoying the Lord with our small troubles. On this line he once said:

"Providence has been very kind to me. When I come to think of it I can assign no reason for this generosity except that I have not bothered Providence with my petitions for about forty years."

Very Much in Love With Life.

It has often been stated that the iron man will not, if he can help it, permit the subject of death to be alluded to in his presence. He seems very much in love with life, thinks this is a very good sort of earth and does not wish to be reminded that he must quit it.

Yet he has made gifts to churches in the way of pipe organs. He says that if the preachers only gave as good sermons as the organs he would have no objection to them.

It must be clearly understood that this article in no way seeks either to uphold or to condemn Mr. Carnegie or his opinions. It seeks to present him to the world as he is; to photograph him in words; to make a series of snapshots of his interesting personality.

It should be added that this is as he would have it. He does not pose, at least consciously. He has often said that he does not want to be regarded as a philanthropist. His native Scotch honesty makes him almost groff in his frankness. He has no patience with shams. He bluntly states his opinions about any institution, however old. Material progress and prosperity make a mighty appeal to him. He seems to lack the spiritual viewpoint. He scarcely knows what it is. He is a sort of materialistic Marcus Aurelius, though an emperor in the industrial world rather than the political.

In spite of his great wealth and fine houses he lives simply and is without vices. His only bad habits are making proverbs and money. He has not given away as many apothegms as he has dollars, probably for the reason that they were not so much appreciated, yet he has handed out a few saws that are not bad in their way. Here are some of them:

"Glasses are used over and under the nose. I always use mine over."

"A life of elegant leisure is the life of an unworthy citizen."

"Among the saddest of all spectacles is that of an elderly man occupying his last years grasping for more dollars."

"The monarchist boasts more bayonets, but the republican more books."

"There are a thousand heroes in the world today for every one any preceding age has produced."

"Put all your eggs in one basket and then watch that basket."

Helped Launch First Sleeping Car.

Andrew Carnegie was born in Scotland and was brought to America at the age of ten. His parents were so poor they had to borrow money to come over. The lad first got a job as a shuttle boy, then as a stationary engineer and finally as a telegraph messenger. Afterward he became an operator, caught the fancy of Colonel Tom Scott and was promoted to division superintendent of the Pennsylvania railroad. About this time he helped launch the first sleeping car, out of which he made a nice stake. During the civil war Scott was made assistant secretary of war, and Carnegie was placed in charge of certain military railways and telegraphs.

There are persistent whispers that at about this time Andy and his brother Tom made considerable money out of army contracts and that these were placed in their way through the influence of Colonel Scott. When the oil excitement started after the war Carnegie cleaned up a million out of the oil field. He then began the manufacture of iron bridges and from humble beginnings became the greatest iron and steel manufacturer in America, if not in the world. Afterward he sold out to the steel trust.

That is the bare skeleton of his career. Put it out with money and you have the whole thing. He is not the modern Midas, for everything he touches turns to a library, not to gold. He has written books as well as housed them, the most noted being "Triumph of Democracy." It is only fair to say that these books did not make Mr. Carnegie famous, but he made the books famous. He also tells many good stories, or, everybody says they are good, because he tells them. He is so charitable that it is hard for the world to be uncharitable to his maxims, books and stories. In other words, it takes his literary pills with gold coating.

One of the best things the monarch of iron ever said was to a rather degenerate Englishwoman who boasted of her family.

"You, madam," he said, "are proud of your descent. I, on the opposite tack, am proud of my ascent."

It is evident from the above that as a high finance funny man in the iron master's Rogers, Harriman and Rockefeller lacked to the most and getting for money.

Carnegie is not only a humorist, but an I. O. O. He did not achieve this greatness, however. It was thrust upon him.

The steel king has a habit of making a big gift, then going off and forgetting about it. Many people who have tried to thank him found that he did not remember what they were talking about.

Theodore Roosevelt once hit Carnegie off very well when he said that he was equally far from two prime virtues of the American people—"hardness of heart and softness of head."

PERILS IN UPPER AIR

Levee Tells Why They Will Not Discourage Ballooning.

SERVE TO ADD ZEST TO THE SPORT

French Aeronaut Says Americans Like Danger, but He Believes Popular Hostility the Chief Obstacle to Aerostatics in United States—Pathetic Feature of Paul Nœuquet's Tragic Death.

"The dangers that go with ballooning are not that will injure it as a sport in America," said Charles Levee, the young French aeronaut the other day in commenting on the tragic end of the late Paul Nœuquet, the young sculptor, in the marshes of Long Island, says the New York Globe. "Danger is what gives zest to aerostatics, and Americans like danger. A sport which provides opportunities for a show of nerve, for quick thinking and quicker action, for coolness in tight places, is bound to appeal to Americans."

"The thing that may kill ballooning in America, however, is the unreasonable prejudice which the people seem to have against the sport in general and balloonists in particular. I have run against this very unjust hostility almost from the day I set foot in this country."

"The people at the railway station, the farmers in the country, almost everybody, it seems, look upon an aeronaut with suspicion. The railway people handle his balloon as if the thing most desired of accomplishment was its destruction. They pull it this way and that, drag it across tracks, kick it into a baggage car, throw trunks on top of it and act generally as if they had been set to the particular task of tearing the thing into ribbons."

"When you come down with the balloon the people are waiting for you—not to congratulate you on having done something daring and unusual, but to mob you. The other day, when Count de la Vaulx, Dr. Thomas and myself came to earth on Long Island, I thought for a time that all three of us would be lynched and the balloon itself torn to pieces."

"It seems absolutely incredible, but these people actually resented not being permitted to carry away with them a piece of the balloon as a souvenir. They kicked it, spat on it, and when I tried to save it from destruction they cursed me and pushed me to one side. One man actually struck me. A stranger who interfered to save us from mob violence was kicked and beaten until he had to run for his life. Dr. Thomas pulled out an American flag and appealed to them on patriotic grounds, but he might as well have been whistling."

"Those who are not actually hostile are indifferent. The aeronaut who is going to indulge his love for ballooning in America must not expect any encouragement from the people at large. In France wherever a balloonist comes to earth he confers a distinction upon that man on whose ground he alights. He is taken in, housed, feasted and made much of. Here he is an interloper and the dogs are turned loose on him."

"Why, after my West Point ascension I came down on the estate of a gentleman farmer in Kingston. This man is probably worth 1,000,000 francs. Well, when he drove me to the station he charged me $3. It's not the $3 I mind; it's the idea back of it."

A strange and pathetic feature of Paul Nœuquet's death was that the young sculptor's body when found on Cott's Island was crumpled in the very attitude of his favorite work, "The Little Man Weeping Into the Ground," now in his studio, says the New York World.

When Nœuquet was starving some years ago, shortly after his arrival in New York, he fell into many wild and morose moods. In one of these he fashioned out of plaster a strange but beautiful and touching figure of a naked man, prostrate, face downward, over a small pile of sand, weeping in despair.

The hair was blown down over the face, which was partly buried in the sand. The shoulders were drawn up, the arms bent, the muscles knotted, every part of the crumpled figure betokening grief and desperation.

To this odd conception of his broad, long face he gave the name, "The Little Man Weeping Into the Ground." He liked to show it to his friends saying it was the truthful expression of how he felt when he was alone and near to death with hunger and despair in New York, then so cruel and strange to him.

A Million Trees For Western Kansas. Approximately 1,000,000 young trees will be distributed to the people living on the prairies of western Kansas free of charge this year, says the Forestry Capital H. S. Beaulieu state forestry commissioner, who was in Topeka from Dodge City recently, says he is afraid that even this number will not be sufficient to supply the demand. The forestry stations at Dodge City and Ogallala have the young trees almost ready for shipment and will be sending them out to those who have made application within a few days.

The Dry Goods Store Just Before Easter

Has been called an interesting institution. It is as much so as a park or an art gallery. It is a collection displayed for the benefit of its visitor. Why does the dry goods man hang out and show his most interesting pieces at this season? It is because he is proud of them and wishes to know how they please his patrons—an appreciative word from a looker is as pleasing to the merchant as a check from a customer. The girl who strolls quietly through the store gets as much pleasure out of some beautiful piece or handsome gown as the lady who buys it. It is not all a mercenary work—months have been spent by the host of buyers collecting pieces for service and pieces of beauty—the one to sell, the other to show. It is now our showing time and we will welcome you now more for what you say than for what you buy. The beauty of a dry goods store is just now its chief glory and a visit is a compliment to its management. We request you to spend an hour looking over our display this week.

"FINE CHAP,"

Said the Doctor and Grandma Had the Little Girl Baby Christened "James."

Tinton, N. J., April 9.—Although given a boy's name by mistake in baptism yesterday, the infant daughter of James McLaughlin, of this city, will not have to go through life with the appellation she received at the baptismal altar.

The child was born Tuesday and was taken to the church Sunday by its grandmother. The woman had heard the doctor who attended Mrs. McLaughlin say "It's a fine chap," and, believing it to be a boy, had it baptised "James Edward McLaughlin Jr."

The mistake was afterward discovered, but the church authorities refused to rebaptise the baby. She will however, be called Hazel J. E. McLaughlin.

Assessors Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the assessors of Newark and Licking county, was held in the Auditor's office on Monday at which time the assessors were given their instructions as to their duties. The instruction were about as usual except that special attention was given to a complete reporting of dogs for taxation. The new law regarding this feature was passed just before the adjournment of the legislature, and provides that the tax of a dog of a tenant shall be a lien against the property. The result is that the land owner will have to pay the tax on dogs, and the tax will be assessed on the duplicate against the owner and collected as other taxes.

A penalty of from $50 to $75 against assessors not returning dogs for taxation in accordance with the law is provided. The auditor also called the attention of the assessors to paid up loans, certificates and money on deposit, to administrators of estates, etc.

The Probate court also furnished the assessors with their books for births and deaths, and gave them their instructions.

Christopher Davis, 68, shot and instantly killed Charles Stuckenberg in an Alton (Ill.) saloon, attempted to kill Fred Immenger, the saloonist, and then attempted to kill himself. Davis was arrested.

Injunction Dissolved.

Through an order issued by the Common Pleas court this morning, the injunction restraining the city clerk from receiving bids for the deposit of city funds, was dissolved. Several banks were notified that their bids would be received. Clerk Munch received bids from the First National and from the Franklin National bank.
